

HOW GOES THE WAR?

Conclusion of Narrative of Yesterday's Events.

Reported Changes in the Plans of the Rebels.

EXPEDITION OVER THE PALI.

Cecil Brown, when he reached the Pali, after having found no danger at Waialae, sent the greater part of his squad back to town. He reserved four of the best men on the regular police force for a scouting expedition to Waianae pass, which A. W. Carter's squad was sent to guard against a possible march of the rebels upon the city, by way of that pass and Nuanu Pali. Mr. Brown telephoned his arrival at Waianae at 5:30. He reported that Henry's squad as at the pass, and Wm. Henry's at the foot of the pass. No rebels were seen on the way.

The returning members of Brown's party were halted several times by the guards. When they were near the Royal Mausoleum they heard three volleys. The reports sounded as if they came from Manoa valley. The bark seen off Waianae yesterday, which occasioned the Claudine expedition, is supposed to have been the Chas. B. Kenny, hence on Sunday and windbound. The two schooners were small coasters about their business.

Last night's arrests were those of Prince Kalaniana'ole, Wm. Kapu (editor of Testa's paper Makaihana), George Lycurgus and Harry Jones. Five prisoners of war were sent in by Capt. T. B. Murray from Waialae. Arrests made previously but omitted from our list were those of F. Wundenberg, P. M. Rooney, Carl Klemme, J. Cranston, A. Muller, Edward France, John Fredenberg, Wm. Widdifield, Yee Moon and Ho Sing.

George P. Townsend, formerly engineer of Engine Co. No. 2, was brought to the station about 1 o'clock. He had been caught on the Waialae road near Diamond Head. In the brush near where he was caught were found thirty-six Winchester carbines in fine condition, besides a large amount of ammunition. Shortly after 5 o'clock an elderly native named Kina was brought in by the detectives. On his premises at Palama were found an old-fashioned pistol and five sticks of giant powder. Kina is a familiar figure about the Fishmarket on Saturdays.

LAST NIGHT'S SENSATION.

It Might Prove to Open Up a New Situation.

Yesterday evening a native named Pasulu telephoned in a report from Mountana in Manoa valley, that twenty-three natives were seen marching through the valley toward Punchbowl. Squads under Chan, Wilder and Alex. Robertson were sent out to reconnoitre. They scorned the whole region but saw nothing, according to a report brought in by messengers after eleven o'clock.

One rumor was that the natives were disguised in woman's clothes, and it was supposed that they had captured two of Dillingham's scouts.

Another expedition of thirty or forty guards was sent out and returned at midnight. They reported it a fact that a band of natives had been seen in the valley. Some were of opinion that it was a crowd from the rebel camp trying to maneuver their way to their respective places of abode. It seemed to be the prevailing opinion, however, that Nowlein intends to work his contingent around the side of Mt. Tanalus to this side of the Pali, so as to gain the Nuanu road without having to go around by the Waianae pass and attempting the dangerous ascent of the Pali, probably in the face of a covered fire from the summit.

This latter theory obtains support from the report of John Dunn, who, under direction of the Government, entered the camp of Wilcox and, as a trusted sympathizer and supposed recruit, obtained a statement of that chief's plans. These were that he was to capture Punchbowl and the powder magazine, and Nowlein was to join forces with him at Punchbowl. It was calculated that the city would fall an easy prey to them from that position.

Wilcox and his immediate supporters appeared to be somewhat surprised at the report of how well the Government's defense was being carried out. He said a Canadian named Evans, with seven white men who had seen active service in the Riel rebellion, would be joined by a large force of natives at Moanalua and march to the support of the main body. Dunn was detailed with a party of natives to carry instructions in regard to this scheme to Nowlein. By strategy he got away from the party and getting into town made his report to the Government.

In consequence of Dunn's report Companies E and B were ordered to occupy Punchbowl at midnight, which they did taking field pieces with them. This movement will probably foil the rebel commander's plan completely.

Report from Citizens' Guard.

Captain Murray of the Citizens' Guard sent a note to Marshal Hitchcock from Camp Murray, Waialeale, at 9 o'clock yesterday evening acquainting him with the fact that five rebels had been captured. One of Murray's own men was also sent in as a prisoner, on account of insubordinate conduct. Murray was positive that Nowlein and Wilcox were in the hills and a skirmish line would be put out on the morning of the 9th. Early this morning the skirmish line was made and it was found that the birds had flown. The squad then returned to town. Capt. Murray did efficient work. The men were well treated by Paul Isenberg at his Waialeale ranch. Henry Evans was corporal of Murray's squad and Behrens acted in a similar capacity in Joe Silva's squad.

Deputy Marshal Brown and a mounted patrolman rode out Merchant street, followed closely by a carriage containing A. G. M. Robertson and officer A. McGurn this afternoon. Mr. Robertson on returning told a reporter they had brought nothing in.

Return of the Eleu.

The Government tug Eleu returned to port about 6 o'clock. Members of the Sharpshooters under W. H. McLean returned to her. The Sharpshooters had captured Diamond Head and assisted in driving the insurgents from the hill. Nothing of no response was made. Captain Rice steamed the Eleu right under the head and anchored. Two boats were seen near the shore, and some of the crew divested themselves of their garments and swam ashore. One of the boats was laden with thirty-two Winchester carbines, that had been captured in W. J. Smith's beach house, which the royalists had taken possession of as a place of assembly and abandoned on being attacked from the sea. Several of the party looked played out. Among the spoils of war brought by the Eleu were two boxes of tea covered with Chinese matting. They were guarded on the way to the station by A. Gilfillan, deputy port surveyor. Some people thought it was opium, and there is a rumor that the tug overhauled a schooner somewhere, capturing a quantity of opium on board.

A Narrow Escape.

Pat Cullen, the special who brought Joe Clark over the Pali, had a narrow escape from being shot by guards. He had Clark handcuffed and they had got to the top of the Pali safely. Coming down near the halfway house Cullen was challenged, and he reached down to pull out his revolver. The guards' guns were raised and they were about to fire when they noticed the handcuffs, and the rifles were immediately lowered. Special Gregory was in command of the halfway house squad.

Innocent Prisoners.

It turns out that the ten natives who were captured on the Waialae road yesterday morning by Sergeant McKee and Lieutenant J. M. Vivas had no connection whatever with the rebels. The natives are from Koolau. They intended to come to town. At the Pali they were challenged, and, rather than return home, they decided to come by way of Waianae. They know nothing of the revolution until they got on the Waialae road, where they were arrested.

Mischiefous Boys.

Crowds of people have been taking in the sights on Punchbowl since the beginning of the uprising. Yesterday afternoon the extinct crater was dotted with people. A number of Portuguese boys loomed an immense boulder and rolled it down the hill. It struck the rear of a Portuguese building, smashing some towards. One of the guards on duty fired a shot as a warning and the boys scattered.

Various Items.

Authentic advice has been received that Sunday night, shortly after the shooting began, twenty natives left the rebels and retreated by way of Waianae, leaving their carbines behind them.

EVENTS OF TO-DAY.

Combination to Force the Rebels to Join Battle.

Firing Heard on the Palolo Ridge--To Capture the Queen's Boats.

Captain Murray and the detail of the Citizens' Guard under his command returned to town last night, being unable to locate where the rebels were. After resting, Captain Murray and fifty of the Citizens' Guard left the station in two busses at 10 o'clock this morning. The party proceeded past the residence of Paul Isenberg on the Waialeale road. The busses were driven up the Palolo road and went as far as the condition of the road would allow the horses and mules to go. A wagon-load of provisions was taken along. The guards stretched out in the form of a half circle and began firing into the mountains. The idea is to endeavor to drive the rebels from the Palolo valley over to Waianae pass where Alfred Carter and William Henry have squads on guard, together with Cecil Brown and four policemen. If Murray's men are unable to rout the insurgents out they will proceed further on the Waialeale road and drive the insurgents into the pass if it be possible. The Waianae pass is guarded, so the rebels will be unable to get out that way. An encounter is inevitable and the only escape of the rebels will be over the mountains. Captains Murray and Hilbus and Guard Severin were positive this morning that they knew where the rebels were located. The Citizens' Guard took sufficient provisions to last them a couple of days.

FURTHER ARRESTS.

Several Well-known Names on the Conspiracy List.

Besides Geo. Lycurgus, brought in after midnight, and the prisoners of war, the following were arrested this date for conspiracy: Chas. Dunwell, Paoo, Sam Kaluahine, Nolo, Jas. Durrell, Henry West, Makia, N. Peterson, W. K. Hutchison, F. Harrison, J. Brown, H. Kaaha, Geo. Makalena, Kunkaula, J. K. Kaunamano, Manuel Reis, John Radin, Lewis J. Levey, Lamalu, Carl Mett,

Blackburn Threatened.

Hackman Blackburn was charged in front of the station at noon with having told people he drove that certain specials were "Government spies." He was given a strong warning that if he did not be careful he would be run in. One of the officers declined to say whether the hackman's offending was before or since the insurrection began. Blackburn is the man who was let out of the Salvation Army corps on the charge of stealing a shirt from a fellow-workman on the dredger. The charge was made in recrimination for Blackburn's accusing his comrade of drinking beer at a volunteer company's after drill refreshing.

Not a Joke.

After midnight Chester A. Doyle and T. W. Hubron accepted a detail to make a reconnoitering expedition in a brake to the top of Punchbowl. Passing Capt. Chan. Wilder's artillery squad on the way, they told him they would give a signal if the heights were clear. On finding no rebels Doyle hoisted a copy of the BULLETIN on the triangulation station rod and set it on fire. This was the promised signal. Mr. Doyle does not like to have it called a practical joke by the morning paper. After being up for two nights he hadn't his joking cap on. It is fortunate, however, that the "Never Sleeps" were organized some time ago, as they are needed now.

Acted Under Orders.

Mr. Peck—in connection with the item, "An Unwarranted Arrest"—admits he challenged Mr. Lindsay before the prohibited hour, also was one of his escorts to the station, but says he acted in both cases under orders of his lieutenant in the Sharpshooters. Two special policemen had called upon the Sharpshooters' guard at Kawaiahoe church to arrest the two men.

A Government Deserter.

Chester Doyle met J. L. Osmer, Sergeant of Co. A, on Monday morning near Sans Souci running in double quick time towards town. Doyle advised Osmer to go back and fight with his company, but Osmer refused, giving as his excuse that his gun was broken. Osmer has been posted as a deserter and the report is in the Marshal's hands.

Did Not Confess.

There is good authority for stating that Captain William Davies confessed nothing on being incarcerated. "Keudsen his mate gave very damaging testimony against him," was a high official's answer to a question two hours after Davies had been examined and locked up.

False Alarm.

A driver of one of the Enterprise dairy milk wagons reported at 2 o'clock this afternoon that there was some shooting in Nuanu Valley. Captain Cordes and members of the mounted patrol went out and found the alarm to be a false one.

The Queen's Boats.

An expedition was to be despatched this afternoon to seize two large boats lying at the Queen's bathhouse at Waikiki.

Various Items.

Early this morning T. E. Krouse of the Arlington Hotel received an order for lunch and coffee for 150 men occupying Punchbowl.

W. H. Daniels, ex-Judge of Waialeale, and two native laborers were arrested at 9 o'clock this morning. The Kamehameha School teachers are guarding the road at that point.

Heli, the policeman wounded in the initial scrimmage, is reported simply as no worse to-day. Geo. Beckley's tap, who was not killed, is improving. So is Lieut Ludwig. Reis, Brown, Peterson and Radin, in the list of arrests, are all 200 hack stand men, the first named being one of the proprietors.

One of the Government forces was sent into the barracks hospital yesterday evening with his head bandaged.

Antone da Rega, a Portuguese boy who has been with the rebels carrying arms for them, was brought in at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Another Portuguese boy is with the insurgents.

Samuel Parker came to the Marshal's office at 3:10 to inquire the reason for his being held up by sentries at Judge Widemann's house.

Sixteen prisoners, including all the foreigners arrested since morning, were taken to Oahu Jail under a strong guard at 3 o'clock. Messrs. Levey and Harrison and the "200" men were among them.

Senior Captain Parker assured a BULLETIN reporter at 1 o'clock this afternoon that everything was all right, although nothing had been seen of the rebels. Two squads of the Citizens' Guard numbering thirty-six and forty-two men respectively, in addition to the military companies on Punchbowl, were despatched this forenoon, with orders to march straight ahead up Palolo and Manoa Valleys and drive the insurgents over the mountains if they should meet with them. No shots had been exchanged and there were no signs of the insurgents at 1 p. m.

Duke of Norfolk Buys Olun Castle.

Olun castle in Shropshire, which dates from the time of Henry III., was recently bought back by the duke of Norfolk, who will have the ruins restored. The duke is baron of Olun and Oswaldestre, one of the oldest baronies in England and a standing bone of contention among heraldic writers. Title and lands were lost to the Howards by the forfeitures of the Tudor time, when four generations were attainted and an earl of Surrey and a duke of Norfolk beheaded. James I. restored the titles nearly 300 years ago, but it is only now that the land returns to Howards.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds. It opens the secretions, relieves the lungs and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. If freely used as soon as the cold has become settled in the system, it greatly lessens the severity of the attack and has often cured in a single day what would have been a severe cold. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for Hawaiian Islands.

PITCHED BATTLE.

Rebels Between Two Fires on Palolo Heights.

VERY LATEST FROM THE FRONT.

The sound of musketry was heard in Manoa Valley this afternoon. A fight is likely in progress.

When the foregoing report was received a BULLETIN reporter was sent out to Manoa Valley on horseback, with instructions to return if possible by 4 o'clock.

Later a telephone message was received at headquarters, saying, "They're fighting like hell."

Messengers from within sight of the battle, telephoning from Mountana, say the rebels are posted on the heights at the convergence of the Manoa and Palolo ranges.

The Sharpshooters are advancing upon the rebels from the Palolo side, while the Citizens' Guard under Capt. T. B. Murray are closing upon them from the Manoa side.

The rebels are thus between two fires, and they are pluckily responding to both.

With the troops going forward from Punchbowl a Hotchkiss gun is being sent, with which to pour deadly rain upon the insurgents.

Two wounded men from the Government side were driven down Punchbowl street in a hack at 3 o'clock. One was lying in the bottom of the carriage. The other had his head bandaged. After one of them had been left in hospital, the other was driven away probably to his home.

FROM OUR OWN REPORTER.

The BULLETIN's reporter returned at 4:10, fully confirming the foregoing.

The rebels are located at the head of Manoa Valley. They are in two divisions.

One division is in a gulch at the extreme end of the valley. It is supposed to be in command of Sam Nowlein. The latest courier to the first outpost says the estimate is that they number about 200 men. The courier could not see, however, how there could be more than 50 or 60 men.

The other division is on the other side of the valley in the gulches, probably two miles distant from the first. It is commanded by Robt. Wilcox and, it is believed, two or three white men. There is no knowing its strength. This division has not been attacked yet.

The German members of the Sharpshooters have two prisoners. Captain Smith with Co. A and Captain Kidwell with the Sharpshooters are located on a ridge to the left of the rebels, and are firing down directly into the underbrush where the enemy are supposed to be hidden.

A great deal of firing is being done.

Dr. Howard, surgeon of Co. A, is at the farthest outpost.

There is a small body of men coming down the Palolo Valley bearing a white flag. Where the truce party came from is not known.

B. F. Dillingham's squad at Punahou has been called on to send a detachment to meet the flag of truce.
